

Old Glory flew proudly over the last of the 2,985-foot suspension cables installed in the final phase of construction of the Williamsburg Bridge in December 1903. Today the very same flag commands a place of honor in Dime Savings' executive offices.